

The Bruker grazing angle objective can be used on the Nic-Plan IR microscope . It utilizes a two-pass configuration, providing sensitivity for collection of data from monolayers or thin films. Thin coatings on metals, semiconductors, and insulators can be readily analyzed with the Grazing angle objective. Polarization integrity is maintained.

Click here for more information.